Lane Notter, M.A., M.D., Professor of Military Hygiene at the Army Medical School, Netley. note.--This paper is reprinted from Volume VIII. Enteric fever, as regards its frequency and diffusion, marks widely its difference to all other forms of disease; it knows no geographical limits, and its very universality and infectiveness makes it one of peculiar interest to medical officers of the British Army, who, serving in various parts of the world and under varying conditions of climate, have ever to contend against this disease, often assuming, as it does, an epidemic form. In India, the subject is one of special interest, inasmuch as there is a widespread belief, founded on a general impression--that most fallacious of all tests, --that enteric fever, although it has existed for many years in that country, has of late increased in...
