PAY YOUR AUTISM BILL OR DIE MENTAL ILLNESS AND LIES MY BRAIN TELLS ME PART I (PAPERBACK)

Createspace, United States, 2014. Paperback. Book Condition: New. Large Print. 216 x 140 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .As a youngster I did not care so much about being close to other people or making good friendships. I had my trombone and it was a special interest and passion to play music. I spent countless hours each day practicing trombone because I enjoyed music. It was not until I became an adult probably around the age of 22 that I started having issues socially with social relationships. I was a late bloomer but when it hit, it really hit me hard. I guess the other kids had been practicing making friends for years. It is kind of like playing trombone. Many people do not realize the challenge in using social skills for those on the Autism Spectrum. Social Skills come naturally to most people. They do not need to practice them or think too hard. It is an unlearned skill that most people have. For me though socializing and making friends proved to be a lot like playing trombone. When I began to desire close friendships and romantic relationships I had major problems. I did not understand how to go about meeting people or getting them to be interested in getting to know me. In this book I will discuss how I learned to make friends in unhealthy ways out of desperation. I ll tell you things I did that did not work and even some things that I did that at the time I thought worked but did not really work in the long run. I will share some mistakes I made with you. It is my hope that by sharing some of my experiences others with Autism will be able to receive...
