This same Jesus, which is taken up from you into heaven, shall so come in like manner as ye have seen him go into heaven. The words which I have just repeated form a part of that portion of Scripture which is appointed to be read instead of an epistle on Ascension-day. They were spoken not by any mortal lips; but by two angels of God, on an occasion than which we have no record of any thing half so remarkable, or one hundredth part so important. As I am going to take advantage of the heavenly declaration, P4 for the purpose of impressing upon your minds a few solemn truths, it may not be amiss if I give to you, in the first place, an outline of the circumstances under which the declaration itself was delivered. You...
